By order of the Commandant.

Major General FARMONT and Lady arrived in this city last evening, and took lodgings at the American Hotel. He was immediately called on by the Governor, State officers and many others. In response to solicitations, he appeared on the balcony of the hotel and made a brief speech, acknowledging the compliment.

Gen. FARMONT is, we understand, on his way to the field of his military operations.

BACK AGAIN.—JOSHUA R. GIDDINGS returned to this city last evening. He is understood to have in charge the management of the "non-party" movement, which the Republicans desire to inaugurate in Ohio. Democrats would look well, training under Old Joshua!

LT. SERGEANT WILLIAM JOHNSON, of the Ordnance Department at Newport, Ky., Barracks, died on Sunday last, July 21, at the age of forty-nine years. He had been in the United States service thirty years, having served in the Florida and Mexican wars, and at the Newport Barracks for the last thirteen years.

LT. LIEUTENANT COLONEL BURMAN gave up his command at the Newport, Ky., Barracks on Monday last, July 22, and left for St. Louis to organize the Thirtieth Regiment of United States Infantry, of which he will be in command. His absence from the Barracks leaves Captain J. D. WILKINS, of the Thirtieth Regiment, in command at that post.

LT. The nine Ohio regiments and the Indiana regiments of three months' men in Western Virginia have been ordered home to be mustered out of the service. A large portion of the men have signified their determination to enlist for three years or during the war. The Ohio regiments are to report here. The seventh Indiana passed through this city yesterday on their way to Indianapolis.

Further from the Great Battle.
WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Herald's dispatch says the rebels are outnumbered in the battle of Manassas. The rebels were substituted for those who were defeated. The ammunition of the artillery had been expended in the contest, and as the cannon were running at full speed, it was not possible to supply of ammunition, the movement was constrained by teamsters and civilians here into a retreat.

A panic among them occurred—they ran for their horses, and without waiting to ascertain the facts, out of the traces of the wagon horses, and commenced a precipitate retreat. The consternation thus created was communicated to the soldiers in the rear of the column at the very moment when a charge of fresh cavalry from Manassas Junction was made upon them. It was nothing more nor less than a stampede. The enemy themselves were unaware of it. The result in a great measure attributed to the tardiness of Patterson.

Gov. Sprague's bravery during the whole day challenged universal admiration, and aided by Mr. Gaston, Paymaster of the 14th New York, succeeded in bringing some degree of order out of chaos. The brave Rhode Island 24th were formed in the rear, to be ready to oppose the advance of pursuers. The number of killed and wounded has been greatly exaggerated.

Gen. McDowell behaved with the greatest bravery, but this was unavailing to arrest a panic in the rear.

Among the wounded now in the Washington Infirmary, are Sergeant MacLin, 1st Minnesota; John Morrison, Second Ohio; W. A. Spas, 24 Wisconsin; S. Warner, Second Lieutenant, 1st Michigan; H. N. Gore, First Ohio; Col. Stocum, New York 22d, wounded not killed.

The Associated Press agent from Centerville, New York, July 23.—A spectator of the battle of Bull's Run, says the single cause of panic was a charge by a large body of cavalry among the teamsters and struggling soldiers who were in the rear of the main forces between Bull's Run and Centerville.

When Gen. McDowell found that his reserve was on the retreat it was too late to counteract the mistake; and he then commanded the main body to fall back, which it did quickly and in good order. The men who had been fighting all day without water and food, were in a state of complete exhaustion.

A spectator, an Englishman, who was present at all the crises battles, says their fighting had been of the most splendid kind. Such charges as the Fire Zouaves and the 69th Irish Regiment, he had not seen at Inkerman or the Alma.

The following dispatch from the Secretary of War, received by the Union National Defense Committee of this city, dated Washington, 23d:

"In reply to your telegram I will say, cheer your friends to active exertions, that we may speedily receive the news of a complete and most vigorous effort to concentrate a large and irresistible army at this point. Regiments are now arriving."

"The works on the south banks of the Potomac are being well manned. The Capital is safe."

Gen. Johnston and Jackson Reported Killed.—The rebels in a starving condition.

Baltimore, July 23.—A gentleman from the Virginia, who arrived here yesterday, reported that the rebels were making most vigorous efforts to concentrate a large and irresistible army at this point. Regiments are now arriving.

The Number Killed Less than Supposed.—Members of Congress and civilians who were present at the battle of Manassas, July 23, 11 A. M.—Later accounts show the number of killed is much less than supposed. Officers' lists are preparing as rapidly as possible. Col. Marston, of New Hampshire, member of Congress, lost an arm. Col. Lamar is slightly wounded. Gov. Sprague, of Rhode Island, was in the thickest of the battle, and made a gallant appearance.

The regiments which have suffered the most are the Fire Zouaves and 69th of New York, the Connecticut 1st, Massachusetts 1st and 5th. A great number of members of Congress and civilians were on the battle field; and their flight added to the confusion.

The number of our troops actually engaged in the contest did not exceed 20,000.
